“ Uncle Howard taught us altruism. You can see it in every wonderful pantographic photo he took of us Bibeau’s and Beckman’s, where he is absent. You can see it in all the cleverly crafted and gently sanded wooden toys he made the children at our family reunions; quietly distributed. He taught us that wisdom can be taught in a quiet voice with few words. He taught us that we were loved by that quick smile of his. I’ll treasure my last visit with Uncle Howard, sitting in his son Frank’s garage in Ball Club, MN at a table having coffee. Uncle Howard was happy to have visited with his brothers, tended to by Vicki, and he asked me, “How are those boys of yours?” I’ll miss and treasure my Uncle Howard.
