“ Brad and family,

I was shocked and saddened to learn of Amy's death. A close friend of mine lost his son at age 20 and I saw close up how devastating that was for him. He handled it by repeating that life was for the living and that his son would have wanted the family to continue and prosper. There is nothing I can say except that I and all who know you, and think highly of you, be it from work as is my case or more personally, share your grief.
