“It's amazing how someone can influence you. Aunt Carolyn always told me stories about our family. She was the self-proclaimed "Family Historian." We would often joke that if Carolyn wanted to look at your photo album, don't be surprised if a picture or two was missing later! Her enthusiasm for our shared history led me to study our genealogy as a hobby for close to 40 years now. This hobby is important to me and I owe it all to Aunt Carolyn. I spent most of a summer once with Carolyn and Paul when they lived in Manassas. For an awkward teenager, it was fun. I am sure Carolyn is sharing stories up in Heaven with her family now. Love you and Miss you Carolyn.

Carolyn was an awesome secretary and right hand of the PWCS science department. She shared her love of people, her organization skills, her expertise, and her friendship with those of us in the science office. The science fair was "Carolyn" driven. I remember sneaking to Giorgios with Mary Keen and bring Carolyn back a slice of that chocolate cake she loved. Her smile moved mountains. For those who knew her, I know you feel the loss. God has taken home an angel.
