“ Charles has been one of my best friends since 2009, when we met in high school. He was such a smart and determined person. We always tried to encourage one another and give each other advice on different things in life. No matter where he lived, people were drawn to him and he would always make so many friends. He had the most sweetest and caring personality and he will always hold a special place in my heart. We hadn't seen each other in a couple years but when he moved back into the area, we got together a couple times and I will forever be grateful for the laughs we shared and the time I got to spend with him again.
