I want to let the universe know that I'm happy today because of Lord Masuka the spell caster who brought my husband back to me when I thought I have lost him forever. On a fateful day I saw series of testimonies on the internet about the help he renders to the heartbroken, so I decided to contact him about my husband who left me without a word, after I narrated all my problems to him he assured me that he's gonna come back home to me to some point I believe him and I did all he asked me to do to my greatest surprise my husband who had refused to see me came to the house and wept for forgiveness and now we are happily living together with much love and care from him. Do you have problems in your relationship ? Has your partner broke up with you and you still love and want him back? Do you have problems with your finances? “ Sister Daisie was a mother to me for many years even when I moved away . She overlooked my rough spots when I first came to the church and helped me soooo much. We always had a place to stay --her door was always open! ! Kind sweet giving--I don't remember her ever being critical or harsh. I have lots of memories all good! As I watch the snow falling I remembered the time she visited me and took a snowmobile ride-it was so funny! I had many dinners at her home many games And she was genuinely interested in helping people make it to heaven. I know she is there!!!

“ Sis. Daisy was there for me when my marriage was falling apart. She took me into her home and taught me many valuable life lessons that I will never forget. I remember when it came time for me to move out she got down and prayed with me. We both cried cus we didn't want me to leave. I will never forget how she was there for me when I had no other family around. I miss staying up late at night playing skipbo and phase 10. I wish I could be there for the funeral but I'm unable to make the trip from Ohio. ??

“ Sis. Daisy, I will miss you so much. Such a sweet, kind person that was NEVER selfish. I will never forget all of the life lessons you taught me while living with you and I will cherish all of the laughs we shared. Always know that you were special to me. You shared with me the hard things in life you went thru and yet you stayed sweet, kind and forgiving and always full of laughter. You never let life get you down. Love you!

“ Sis. Daisy, a special Sister in the church. I know everyone could give a story about Sis. Daisy. She loved her family, especially those grandchildren and the church family. She never wanted to miss church. God was big in her life. Sis. Daisy always opened her home to everyone, especially to the Young Sisters. Several of them lived with her. She loved cooking for the church, the young people and for the sick. Everyone would always want to get Sis. Daisy's peach pie. And how could we forget her hoe bread. I know that she will be missed.

“ In earlier years, it was always a pleasure when Daisie Garner stepped into the office where I was employed; she was always such a sweet, nice lady. Know that her life must have been truly a gift to many people.

“ Words cannot express the grief felt when I received the news of Sis. Daisy's (Nannie) passing. Growing up, I always knew this day would come, but you are never prepared for the passing of someone who has affected your life in this capacity. In knowing Nannie since I was a child, every memory I have is positive. I can remember many nights as a child staying overnight at her house and always having a great time. Whenever my parents were out of town, I always wanted to go to Nannie's house. In recent years, she so willingly and lovingly acted as a nurse to my mother during her final days, even sleeping on a mattress on the floor next to my mom's bedside. I have many memories of going to her house to eat, play games until early in the morning, and do a few chores. She always had a chore list for me to accomplish. On many weekends in the past few years, I would receive phone calls asking for company - which meant it was time to play games, eat funnel cakes, and talk about current events. I wouldn't trade anything for the opportunities I was given to enjoy her company and receive much guidance on spiritual problems, politics, and financial management. Many nights, I would drive her to Madgee's (Sis. Madge Cornwell) house for a nice dinner and an evening of fun or even to Harrisonburg for a seafood buffet. I could write much more about the adventures I had with Nannie. My heart is sad, but she got her reward for which she fought so dearly. She didn't always have it easy, but she stayed true to the end. I can only imagine the look on her face when she awoke and realized she had made it.

May we all follow her fun-loving and positive example in her personal life, and the Godly example she set she before us in her spiritual walk with God. My deepest sympathy and prayers to her family and friends. May God encourage and strengthen you in the time ahead.
