“ My brother was my best friend. He was my younger brother but so many times filled the shoes of being my older brother. It was just he and I. We went through alot as brother and sister in our life. I loved you so much. I was so afraid of losing you to death. I know I must live on but it is a hopeless quest. I dont care about life. Nothing is good anymore. I miss you every day and plead for God to take special care of you. You were my kindred spirit. A bond of everlasting sibling love and a special baby brother. My only hope is that maybe some day we will rejoin each other and have a better life there together than we did here.

“ For years, Dan delivered packages to the elementary school at which I used to work in Fairfax City. He was such a nice guy, and an overall friendly person! I was shocked and saddened to learn that he has passed away. My heartfelt condolences go out to his family. May he rest in peace.

“ I have known Daniel since he was in high school. Daniel had the ability to fix almost anything. I remember moving into a new house and learning from neighbors the first day that the previous owner could be dangerous. As a single person I freaked. Daniel came over that evening and changed the lock on my door. I have heard Phil Higgins say more times than I can count, "I've got to get Daniel to come over to fix..." He was a hard worker and he loved Jennifer so much. Suellen

Dan was our next door neighbor. My favorite memory of him happened on the day after I retired. We had a big storm that blew over a 25 foot tree in our front yard. It landed in Dan's front yard. He got up that morning about 4AM to leave for Tennessee for vacation. As he told me later, he came out of his front door to have a cigarette, and said "I've got way too much tree in my yard!". Dan postponed his vacation for several days to help me cut up and haul off truck load after truck load of logs and tree trimmings. His kindness, neighborliness, and capacity for hard work will always be remembered. Our thoughts go out to Jennifer, and others who were close to him.
