

Deborah Lynn Ogden

April 21, 1964 - December 31, 2021

Deborah Lynn St. Clair Ogden, 57, passed away on December 31, 2021, at Prince William Hospital in Manassas, Virginia. She lived her early years in Prince William County, graduating from Woodbridge Senior High School. She continued her education attending classes at Northern Virginia Community College and Old Dominion University, proudly graduating with a bachelor's degree from the University of Phoenix. Debbie worked over 30 years for the Department of Agriculture, Washington, DC, and retired in 2019 after many years preparing grants for educational institutions. She married the love of her life, Wayne, in 1998 and they made their home in Fauquier County with her stepchildren, grandchildren, and many loyal dachshunds. Debbie was a proud Woodbridge Viking and was instrumental in planning reunions for the class of 1982. She thoroughly enjoyed singing in her high school chorus and as a soprano for a singing quartet. She loved spending time with her friends and at her family's cabin in Bedford, Virginia. Debbie and Wayne enjoyed traveling around the mid-Atlantic states, especially with their grandkids, visiting RV campgrounds to relax and be with each other. Debbie is survived by her husband Wayne, stepdaughters Heather, Amber and Bridgette, granddaughters Jasmine, Madison and Bailey and grandsons Hunter and Sterling. Debbie is preceded in death by her parents, Thomas E. St. Clair and Joannah Kate Arnold St. Clair, and stepson Brian Ogden.
