“ I remember going to Aunt Margaret’s house with my Mom, and Dwight always seemed busy doing many things. I remember after he went to Vietnam, my Mom would take me to the grocery store to pick out items to send to Dwight as a care package. Dwight was a quiet person but he seemed to always have a smile or be laughing. He was one of my early heroes for going to Vietnam and coming home safe and sound. Although I wasn’t as close to Dwight and his family in later years my Mom would tell me he would ask about me and wished me well. He was a very compassionate and giving person. I know he’s rejoicing now with his beloved wife Karen, his parents, sister, and all of this family members that were at Heaven’s Gate to welcome him home. I thank God for being allowed to have shared in his life.
