“ Our mothers were sisters, so Beth is my cousin. Beth was close in age to me and 2 of my brothers, and I remember playing with her as a small child whenever our families got together and her mother would get upset with her for getting so dirty. But I think Beth had fun. When she was a little older, she was very nice to us and entertained us little kids, playing all of her latest records. In our more grown-up lives, we did not see each other as much, but she has always been a very well-thought-of member of our extended family and I am very sad that she has passed away. When she was young, she was always so pretty and well put together, and she just seemed to stay that way as the years have passed.

“ I remember Cousin Beth since we made mud pies together as kids, visited her in Long Island in the summer of 1964, played her records (Beatles, Beach Boys, Rolling Stones, Dave Clark 5, Dusty Springfield), went to the New York World's Fair as kids. Sometimes years would pass between visits. One thing about Beth, every time I saw her, she was prettier than the last. And as the decades passed, she kept getting nicer and nicer and nicer. Wish we'd known each other better, but she will be missed.
