“ If I could use one word to describe Aunt Emily, it would be "gracious." That personifies the grace, kindness, elegance and style that was always present with her. I will always remember how she (and Uncle Bob) always opened her home to me, and were always quietly teaching me the finer points of life. I am glad I got a few opportunities to visit them in the last five years. They were delightful experiences that jsut added to the good memories of have of her. I will miss her.

“ I remember her beautiful smile and laugh as well. When Michael and I were little kids in New York it was always an adventure and a treat to go to her house. A loving, kind and wonderful person. She will be missed greatly. Louis Scuderi

“ I can still see and hear Aunt Emily telling a story, the expression on her face, the tone of voice, the smile and the chuckle. She was always full of grace and love. Often times when I do some little thing that she either taught me to do or that I saw her doing, I think about her and can hear her explaining. Every time I undersew a facing to make it fall nicely, every time I make a neat perfect "hospital bed" corner and every time I put a bar of perfumed Spanish Maja soap in my linen drawer, I think of her. Growing up, I always thought of Aunt Emily as being elegant and beautiful inside and out. She cared a lot for her family. Every time she called my house to ask why Mom had not answered the phone, my heart was touched by her concern. My greatest comfort is that I spoke to her a couple of days before she passed, and I got to tell her that I love her. I cannot help but to think how the family is united again, and how joyful they must all be to have Aunt Emily with them.

“ What can one say about a life well lived? In the case of my dear Aunt Emily much can. Last week, I lost one of the kindest, most caring people in my life. She was the epitome of elegance, beauty and style. Actually, there are not sufficient adjectives to describe what she was and what she meant to me. May she rest in peace and may her family be consoled in the thought that she has entered into her heavenly home.
