

Evette Lynn Braenovich

January 18, 1960 - July 29, 2024

Evette L. Braenovich, 64, died unexpectedly on July 29, 2024, with her husband by her side in Haymarket, Virginia.

At her request, no service will be held. Evette will be cremated at the Pierce Funeral Home and Cremation Services located in Manassas, Virginia. She was born on January 18, 1960, in St. Albans, West Virginia.

After high school, Evette became a nurse and worked on a hospital orthopedic floor taking care of patients. Later she accepted a sales position in the medical field and that was her true calling in life. She excelled to become the greatest of all time salesperson. She constantly thought outside the box, won multiple sales awards in the medical field. In 2017, Evette decided to extend her sales abilities, and became a realtor. Having experiences with real estate from house hunting, buying and selling homes to researching, building, renovating and moving; she understood what it took to succeed in real estate. There too she exceeded her expectations and became a very successful realtor. She was a very determined and strong-willed person.

Evette's hobbies and interests included bicycling, dog sports training and competitions. After several years of the dog sports she settled back into just spending time with her own German shepherd dogs Windy, Mecal and three cats Tiger, Tommy and Theo. She had a love for animals, all animals. She saw to it that birds, wild animals around the house always had food to eat. These feedings kept the cats Tommy and Theo entertained. She will be dearly missed.

Tribute Wall

C.

“Evette was a warm, sincere, and compassionate person. I primarily knew her as my real estate agent from multiple transactions, but she was always so kind, honest, and I genuinely considered her a friend. I was shocked to learn of her passing, but one of the things that stood out most about her was how she really took the time to get to know everyone she was showing my home to.

I was even able to capture some photos of her, taking the time to fully explain the home buying process to all the people who came to my open houses. She did so regardless of age, race, gender, or outward appearance. Not many realtors are like this, especially when they are unaware that the client just happened to be nearby (by random chance).

I am a photographer and had intended to surprise her with some of these photos as possible future marketing materials as a way of saying thanks for selling my place in such a timely manner, but I just learned of her passing and feel devastated.

However, I listened to her give empathetic explanations to each person or couple that came through and wanted to share these here. She was there for me multiple times when my life was hard, and even when another broker tried to scam me. She protected my interests and acted as a friend, communicating far more often than she needed to as my agent.

I feel lost not knowing how she passed but she will be in my prayers, and I hope her family, friends, and other loved ones see this message and realize the enormously positive impact she had on my life.

C.A. - February 27, 2025 at 02:26 AM

 Estee
Beck

“ I write this with a mix of emotions, as the passing of my mother, Evette Thompson, Evette Sheppard, Evette Lacy, and Evette Braenovich brings a sense of finality and relief. Our relationship was fraught with pain, estrangement, and deep life altering and enduring scars from her actions. There were choices she made that hurt me, her family, and decisions that left us disowned from one another. I am not grieving in the traditional sense, as the distance between us was something I needed for my own survival and well-being.

Despite the hurt, I recognize that people can be complicated. Life doesn't always allow for neat conclusions, and while she may have struggled with her own inner battles, the consequences of her actions were real and painful and continue to affect me to this day.

In acknowledging her death, I also acknowledge a part of my story — but it's a chapter I closed long ago. For me, her passing is not just about loss, but about finding peace within myself and moving forward from the darkness.

I send compassion to those affected, and to those, like me, who have had to reconcile with a past that was painful. May we all find healing in our own ways. -- Dr. Estee Beck

Estee Beck - October 05, 2024 at 04:32 PM

 Estee
Beck

“ I write this with a mix of emotions, as the passing of my mother, Evette Thompson, Evette Sheppard, Evette Lacy, and Evette Braenovich brings a sense of finality and relief. Our relationship was fraught with pain, estrangement, and deep life altering and enduring scars from her actions. There were choices she made that hurt me, her family, and decisions that left us disowned from one another. I am not grieving in the traditional sense, as the distance between us was something I needed for my own survival and well-being.

Despite the hurt, I recognize that people can be complicated. Life doesn't always allow for neat conclusions, and while she may have struggled with her own inner battles, the consequences of her actions were real and painful and continue to affect me to this day.

In acknowledging her death, I also acknowledge a part of my story — but it's a chapter I closed long ago. For me, her passing is not just about loss, but about finding peace within myself and moving forward from the darkness.

I send compassion to those affected, and to those, like me, who have had to reconcile with a past that was painful. May we all find healing in our own ways. -- Estee N. Beck.

Estee Beck - October 04, 2024 at 05:22 PM

“ I worked with Evette. Evette touched a lot of people. My staff member and I have been remembering all of her kind words and jokes. She was always positive. Her bright personality came through in her energy and beautiful fashion. I will truly miss the multitude of conversations she and I would have and her popping in my office, so we could catch up. [😭]

Sabrina Jones - August 09, 2024 at 05:13 AM

JT

Did she ever talk about her parents and the reason she crossed them

Johnthompson thompson - October 04, 2024 at 06:05 PM

JT

She crossed them out over something that they never did she's the one that caused the problem. we haven't spoke for 20 years

Johnthompson thompson - October 04, 2024 at 06:11 PM