“ Death is not an end, but a rite of passage into a new and sometimes scary beginning and experience. May all the ancestors, both known and unknown that have come and gone before you, take your hand and guide you through the great mysteries beyond the veil. May their torches bearing the ever present flame help to guide your way through the mist and into a new beginning, a new time, a new frequency and a new experience. May your spirit be soothed by the sound of the drums that beat and pulse in the hearts of those who love you. I hope you journey into the next life with as much unconditional love as you put out in this lifetime. May your heart shine and the stars twinkle in your eyes.

*There is an African proverb that we all stand on the shoulders of our ancestors. So, through the thoughts, prayers and actual candles lit in her name, may we come together to help soothe, lift and elevate her spirit as she helps to elevate our spirit in return.*

While we miss and crave the physical, we can not deny and neglect the spiritual. We say "good bye" to the body but not to the spirit. Through memories and emotions we help to venerate and keep the spirit alive, though we must not be bound to sadness or regrets.

*Abuela, emi o ?af??ri o ati ki o yoo wa nigbagbogbo ninu okan mi.
Emi ko le han bi o j?bi Mo lero fun kò ni ogbon to lati s? ti o dara isimi. Mo nif? r?. Emi o bu ?la fun nyin.
Maferefun gbogbo Egun!*

"...we are the stars which sing, we sing with our light. We are the birds of fire, we fly over the sky. Our light is a voice, we make a road for the spirit to pass over.."

*Always love and light by the rising moon and setting sun,
You know who.*

Mommy, Daddy, and I are so sorry for your loss. You will be in our prayers. Even though we do not see each other often, we love you deeply. Daddy loved to talk to his sister, Florine, for hours on the phone. Their hearts stayed connected through the years.
