“ tomatoes, lyriapy and rose of sharon -

Kay was a gardener - I am a wanna be gardener - she often gave me clippings some grew some withered under my neglectful eye. Still Kay encouraged me, gave me more clippings, more tips and more hope that the upcoming year would be the year that things really took. My rose of sharon that took three starts before it took will be cherished as it will now be my reminder every time I come home of Kay. Sweet spirit, happy smile and willing heart. I so enjoyed her and the great way she lived her life - loving her family and so proud of her girls and grandchildren - she had her priorities right!! When I had my Alaena Grace and was so afraid she didn't belittle my fears but encouraged me to know who I was and believe. Thank you Kay for that - you were right I love my Boo - she is part of me and a disability doesn't change a mothers heart.

Love to you all sweet family so glad for the great memories and the closeness that she set such a great example of.

“ We all love Aunt Kay. She has always had such a bright and beautiful smile to match her spirit. Our 7 yr old daughter Katie said it best when she she said that she was happy for Aunt Kay because she was with God now, and wasn't hurting anymore, but she was sad for the rest of the family because we will miss her so much.

Aunt Kay's beautiful smile and spirit are not gone, just shining up in Heaven, looking down on her family and loved ones.

“ Kay and I worked together decorating our church for Christmas. The last couple of years she would say how she would like to be there with us but illness kept her away. We always thought of her and missed her laugh and her thoughtfulness. The last time we worked together, she made the most delicious chicken soup in the crockpot for our lunch. Everyone raved over it, but she didn't think it was all that special. We pressed her for the recipe and she emailed it to me. I still have it and will cherish it in my collection as Kay's Chicken Soup.

My prayers go out to her family as they mourn. She was a terrific lady, always smiling even when she was in pain. She will be sorely missed.
