“ Around our house Jim's creative ability and love of children are evident in every corner. Our albums show him playing with the grandkids. Several rooms have his design efforts in view. Inspired by his dedicated contributions to the Red Cross and motivated by his courageous fight against cancer, John has donated blood platelets in the last three years to the Red Cross. Jim's inspiring legacy will live on through continued platelet donations, each motivated by Jim's courage and love of his fellow man. Love John Boyer

“ Jim loved children. I remember his hands guiding the hands of my granddaughter as they made a clay pot together. His tales of his nephews and nieces always made him smile. The story he told about two boys at school where he volunteered as a tutor made me smile. While he worked with one, the other would distract the first and when he switched boys the reverse happened. Jim said with a grin, “They were two-timing me.” We miss Jim and have made a donation to Wounded Warriors in his name. Love Kathy
