“ Jeff was a faithful member of the BDG investment group. It is a group of mostly Intelligence professionals. The club is over 35 years old and has seen many professionals come and go over the years. When I retired in 2006, I moved to Pensacola but retained my club membership online. Jeff was very adept at interrupting stock charts. In addition to meetings, he and I frequently shared investing philosophy, politics and intelligence on a one-on-one basis. It was always such an uplifting experience just talking to Jeff. At 81 I infrequently look at someone so young as Jeff experience death prior to me. I was shocked by the call. I considered him a dear friend and I can tell you he will be missed by me. If you have a dear friend, every time you depart, give them a hug and say you love them. That way if they pass unexpectedly, you will remember the last thing you said to them was positive and uplifting.
