

John Dale Blanchard

April 22, 1928 - August 7, 2016

On August 7, 2016 John Dale Blanchard (88) left this life to join his wife, Rose. Before leaving, John lived a full life during which he served his country, his community, and, most passionately, his family: his daughter Debra McCorkle, her husband Jack and their sons Matthew and Peter; and his son Bruce, his wife Ann, and their children John, Neil and Sarah Blanchard. John was born in Alexandria, Virginia, graduated from George Washington High School, served two tours in the United States Air Force, and attended Wake Forest and George Washington Universities, where he earned both a B.S. and an MBA. While in school, he began working for the United States Government, where he found true joy in serving the United States military in various civilian positions. His career was one of accelerated success, and he eventually became a Senior Service executive (SES), attaining the highest civilian grade, and receiving numerous achievement awards, including a Presidential Award presented to him by President Carter in 1980. He was a longtime leader in the Army Material Command (AMC), where he focused not only on procurement but also on the ethics of government contracting. In 1984, John retired from the AMC, and went to work for Martin Marietta Corporation where he served as an executive vice president. Upon his retirement from Martin Marietta, John began a new career as a caretaker for Rose, who was battling Parkinson's disease, and as "Grandpa". In his capacity as Grandpa, he spent 18 years in the high stakes sports world of his grandchildren, never missing a little league, CYO, or scholastic game, and never failing to challenge the missed calls of countless umpires and referees. His ideal days were spent sitting behind a backstop, along a sideline, or in a gym watching John, Neil and Sarah play a game, or competing against Matthew and Peter in a hard fought round of golf or a spirited game of poker on the Outer Banks.

John was greatly loved, and he will be greatly missed.
