

John Hatton Hyman

September 17, 1935 - December 2, 2018

It is with great sadness that the family of John Hatton Hyman announces his passing after complications from a stroke on Sunday, December 2, 2018, at the age of 83 years.

A native of Scotland Neck, North Carolina, John moved to Alexandria, Virginia, as a young boy and resided in the Northern Virginia area for the entirety of his life.

A world traveler and proud veteran of the United States Navy, John had a variety of careers and hobbies as a homebuilder/President and owner of Colony Homes, a community college professor of 37 years, a local religious leader, and as the author of two novels recounting his childhood in the American South of the 1940s.

He was married to his beloved wife Linda Lou McCracken for 33 years until her untimely passing in 1988. They had two wonderful daughters, Melanie and Sally. He will be lovingly remembered by his two children, his grandson Andrew, son-in-law Steve, as well as countless other loved ones and friends. A memorial service honoring his life and legacy is being planned for the spring.
