“ For two years I worked with John at Amazon's BWI1 location. We were kindred spirits sharing laughs over music, movies and life in general. I was devastated to hear of his passing. RIP big guy. ”

“ I worked with John years ago and discovered a shared love of reading. He would pass along a good book and when I'd try to give it back later, John would always tell me to pass it along to the next reader. I loved that sharing of books instead of just keeping it to one's self to collect dust on a shelf. I loved it so much I quickly adopted the same practice and still pass along my own books in the same manner. I haven't spoken to John in years but often think of him when I pass along a good book and always credit him if someone asks why I don't want my books back. RIP John, thank you for your love of reading, giving heart and sense of humor. Praying for peace and comfort for your family and friends.
