“ Hey bro, it's been over 6 years since since we last spoke. And I woke up this morning and I'm just now finding out you are gone. I just want to say I love you. It was never your fault we didn't speak, you always knew my reasoning. Clearly I'm finding this out after everything has happened. I'm in shock... It's so weird because Brandon and I were just reminiscing about our childhood together. You were my best friend growing up. My father ruined everything. I love you bro. We will meet someday!!

“ Hey bro. I'm still in shock right now. I wish we could have one more conversation. I can't stop thinking of all the memories we had together. From our first time meeting each other at our parents job to me sitting in my 3rd grade class toward the end of the year getting ready to meet our new classmates and teachers and to my surprise my brother walks in and happens to be in my class. Also the time in 4th grade when us boys would throw wet toilet paper on the ceiling and walls and getting in trouble for it haha. Then having 5th grade together as well. Although life sucked I would go back and live through all those memories again just to see you again. There are so many memories I could roll through. I can't stop thinking of them. I love you man!

“ Hey bro. I can't sleep right now, thinking about you. Brandon and I were having a conversation not long ago about the crazy things we used to do. From the time your mom had gotten us some alcohol that one New Years, my first :), to all the band trips we had, all the times I stayed the night at your dads with you. My biggest regret is the time we didn't have. I love you!

“ My dearest son,my world has stopped,as my heart has shattered into a million pieces. Justin,mommy wants you to know that she loves you so much,and that you grew into a wonderful caring young man. I could never have asked for a greater son than the one that I got. Justin since the day that you were born,you were the light in mommys eyes. I was and still am so proud of who you are! I wish I could take you into my arms and hold you forever son,but you are with GOD now. I struggle as I sit here remembering all the great times that we shared togeter,our chats,laughs and all the crazyness that we joked about! Justin I will be seeing you again,but I know you will be in GODS hands,and he will watch over you till we meet once again. Justin we had a special bond that will never be forgotten. Son I am going to miss you so much,but always remember that mommy loves you.....Love you always,Mommy

“ Justin was a great friend. I am glad that I knew him and got to spend time with him. He was always very helpful to everyone. I have a lot of great memories and I wish there could be more. I remember he came to my dad’s birthday party at Laser Quest one year. We were all outside and he was doing this silly run and his hair would flap up against his forehead and he just looked so goofy. He made everyone laugh. The moments that I remember the most are when we were laughing. It was so easy to laugh about the silliest of things when you were with Justin. I remember another time when I was with him and my sister and they were making funnel cakes. We decided to try to fry a Snicker’s bar in a pot of oil like they do at the county fair, but instead of it looking like theirs, it just melted into a blob. I remember another time on our way home from the beach, I talked to Justin the whole car ride back home and he listened to me the entire time. He gave good advice and was the kind of person you would want to be around. It was always a great time with Justin. He was such a wonderful person with a big heart. I cherish all the memories I have of him. I really miss Justin a lot. I wish he was still here. I am sorry for his loss. He was a good person.

“ My dearest grandson, I can't accept that you're gone. Justin, I will miss out long talks, laughs, tears, and frequent phone calls just to say I love you! Justin you were not only my grandson, but my best friend! We could talk about anything and you always knew just what to say. I watched you grow from a little boy into a man, and I was so proud of everything you accomplished in life. When the news came, about your death, I just couldn't believe it, my friend my buddy has left my side! Justin, I loved you so much that words could never express. Please Justin leave a light on for me, so when it's my time to go, I can find you above the stars...

“ My sweet baby boy,when I first laid eyes on you at birth,I thought you were the sweetist baby I ever did see. I watched you grow into a handsome young man,with a lot of dreams,accomplishments,and a fine son! Justin you made me very proud,in every way possible. Justin, I will miss our special talks,and our crazy laughs together. I cant believe you left me,but trust me mommy will see you once again. Justin life wont ever be the same without you,and there are things I will never understand,but I know deep in my heart that you will never be upset or in pain,and with that I will let you go! Justin,Josh and I will always remember you as our son and big brother,and you will always be in our heart! GOD has you now,and will take care of you til mommy comes to be by your side! I love you my sweet baby boy.....
