“Daddy, I still can't believe it's been two years. Some days are much easier because I think of your laugh, or how we'd joke around and I'm okay. But then the hurt sets in and I get mad.. I get mad because you should be here. To see Barbie happy and married to the man of her dreams. To see Kayla, she can swim pretty good now daddy, and oh my gosh you would be SO proud of how she's doing in math. I finally got my license and a car, so you wouldn't have to do all the driving if you were still here. I love you, so much that it literally hurts me to my core. Until I see you again.. Save a place for me next to you so when I get there, I can give you a hug. I've missed those the most.

“ My thoughts and prayers are with you all! Larry always... ALWAYS had a smile and good word for anyone I saw him meet! He made me feel comfortable and welcomed me to the family!! Thank you Larry (and Cathy) for that... So sorry the years and distance have kept us apart. But the memories will last forever! Love to you all

“ Where do you start reminiscing about someone who helped change your life...

Larry & Cathy were the reason I met my Husband. 28 yrs ago Cathy and I shared an amazing journey together. Larry brought Garry into my life one crazy night and in a blink of an eye, my life was changed forever.

Although, over the years, our lives have taken us in different directions, I know beyond a shadow of a doubt that our friendship would take off where it left off immediately. My heart is heavy for all the family left behind, but I know Larry is free from pain, and he will be busy getting a place ready for Cathy and the rest of the family to to spend eternity together.

I can see Larry's oldest daughter Kelly, ready and waiting to met him with open arms, and welcomed him home. And I'm sure that his mother in law Floaty Sirk had some sweet tea ready for him, and already had a list of chores for him.

This parting is always hardest on those left behind...but take comfort in knowing we are only separated for a short while... Larry has definitely made his way through those pearly gates and what an amazing time we will all have when we get united again some day.

“ No words can express how much he will be missed. Your family was there when we lost mama to help with Alana. I could never express how much that meant to me. (Uncle Larry and Crazy Cathy). It seems our families always stick together. With my daddies loss so fresh it seems so unreal. I am so sorry for your loss. Remember he was loved and so are you. Y'all are in my prayers.

“ Dearest Wyman Family

Thank you for allowing me to be a part of your family. To mom (Cathy) may God give you strength to continue on through life without your best friend. Just know that now he is your guardian angel. To Kayla your grandpa will be your guardian angel and look out for you always. To my sisters Barbie and Jenny I love you guys to the moon and back and will be here whenever you need or want me. Rough days are sure to come but know that God doesn't give you anything that you can't handle. Dad thanks for loving me like one of your own. May you rest in paradise.

*Love you guys always
