“ Hello. This is obviously very late, but yesterday I visited the U.S. mint for the first time ever, even though I live only 20 minutes away in New Jersey.

Mr. Roy was my upstairs neighbor from about 1997 to 2003 in Maple Shade, New Jersey. I remembered he worked at the mint in Philadelphia and was thinking about him yesterday when I took the tour with visiting relatives.

He was a nice guy. I went up to his apartment a couple times and he talked about his family. Mostly we would talk when we both happened to be entering our apartments at the same time. Very friendly guy and always smiling. I have only good memories of him and I'm sure anyone reading does as well.

“ Oh what a beautiful smile Leroy Spruill had! It warms the heart. May the God of all comfort strengthen you at this distressing time. God promises that “he will swallow up death forever.” (Isa 25:8) Envision the happy reunions as relatives and friends, long separated by death, embrace one another again. (John 11: 39-44).
