“ *To the family of "Papa" Lynn Huffman:
I loved Papa and will miss him so much. He was "Papa" to his daughter's friends. I grew up with Melissa, and Papa has always been part of my life. The door was always open at his home for visits, and I was treated like family. If there was a special gathering for one of "his kids"--Melissa's friends--you can bet he would be there, too. When I lived in Miami during early college days, he decided it was a good time to head for Florida. He got out his maps for a road trip with "Mama" and included me in their planned visits. I never did figure out how he could appear to be napping and snoring during part of that visit, but yet, he'd flip open his eyes and fill in details of stories Mama was telling--never missing a beat. He surely did love these Blue crabs and oysters, and it was amusing to watch him outeat us. I'm so glad I was able to share his 95th birthday celebration with him, where family and friends were gathered by the shore--to eat crabs and oysters, of course! He was a good man with a generous heart, and he loved his family. I loved Papa, and I will surely miss my visits with him. Love and my empathy to all of his family, Melody.*
