“Wow!! It's 2024 and the dates fall exactly the same as they did in 2007. How has it been this long, 17 years!! A lot has happened that you would be happy about and things have happened that would grieve your heart and soul. Some of which God had begun to show you, but you held steady and sought him and he spared you much of the heartache and for that I'm thankful. But, I would love to pick your brain on some of this! You were such a strong woman but only because, as your tombstone says you kept the faith. You sought God and obeyed him and loved him with all of your heart, soul, and mind. You are definitely a memorial in my life! God blessed me with a solid steadfast mother that raised me to put him first in everything not only by teaching but by her example! You were a godly wife, mother, sister, aunt, daughter, and friend!! Tonight was your viewing 17 years ago! Sooo many people came to pay their respects. You touched the lives of so many. I wish so bad your grandchildren, 5 now, could meet you. But, let me tell you, we all talk about you and your memory lives on in our conversations, pictures, and even some of your grands and great grands who are just like you in many ways. I wish everyone could've known you. I could go on and on but figured I'd leave a little note here for others to read in years to come. Love and miss you sooo much but am so thankful you made it and I'm longing and striving to make it too. 💜

“ Chris is missed. We had many fun memories. Especially working on the young peoples banquet. I miss her singing. She really put her heart in those songs that she sang. And like Wendy said. You have to watch her playing a trick on you. I remember the many times Mark was always scaring her.

Oh, how she loved her kids, grandkids and family. But most of all, I will never forget how she trusted God with her body. You could see without a shadow of doubt how God brought her right through that time of affliction. We give all the glory to God. And I know God was there to give her thoughts of comfort instead of fear because I know without God being there, she could have not went through it like she did because she would not have wanted to leave her family.

“ Tonia, Heather, and Jason, I just want you to know my heart is breaking for you at this time.? Tomorrow will be one year and I can only imagine how difficult this time is.? You as well as your mom are in our thoughts and hearts.? We miss her so much and will NEVER ever forget what a wonderful perfect person she was.

“ I am so sad. Sister Christina was a lot of fun. I'm glad I got to go on the PA trip with her. She always could make you laugh.. and a little nervous with all those tricks up her sleeve. Skeerey!! :-) Hope you know I think of the family often and Pray up in my 3rd flr apartment so I'm closer to God & my prayers make it through the clouds. Love ya all. ~Wendy aka "porky" to your Mom. She called herself "Petunia Pig." ha ha.

“ Bro. W. talked about your mom last night... singing the song.. "I love it just like it is!" Jay happened to be there, too. It made me sad.. because whenever I think of you.. I miss all our crazy times. There's not many people left that want to have fun anymore. Most are so boring... BUT.. of course you should know YOUR sweet SON would not be boring. The creep tied my front door knob to my handrails one Sunday Morning... him and his crimnal friends... I was late to devotions... ugh!! They did a good job.. I could barely stick my fat paw outta the door to try to whack it loose. I still haven't got him and Joey and the 2 Phoenix guys back.. With some insider help... I have witnesses... yay for that!! Anyway.. while you're up in heaven.. can you please pray for the REDSKINS. thx. love and kisses. bye for now.
