“ There are many people who gave away their hearts on Valentine's Day, but for many of us who knew Patti, we seem to have lost a part of our hearts when losing her. She never passed me by without asking about my daughter, who has breast cancer, and never saw me without offering a wave and a smile! Oh, that smile! Patti will surely be missed on North Point Road and I will be driving past their house, feeling an empty heart. God speed!
