“ I've been waiting this long to think of something great to write about Reba. However, I'm not a great writer, and have to say something about the kindest person you would want to know, Reba. I was sort of her first supervisor at the U S Patent & Trademark Office. I say sort of, because for a short time Reba worked for Gary Shaw at the Office. But because John Wolff (now also deceased) had recruited Reba at an Office job fair, Reba was soon transferred to our art unit. Any great word you can think of (pleasant, dependable, hard working, e.g.) described Reba (and none of the negative words). Can't remember meeting her family, but heard about them from her (her number 1 priority). I am very surprised and sad to hear of her passing.

“ I can't express how much Reba means to me. Not everyone is lucky enough to have two mothers. I fortunately was blessed to have a another mom that helped me finish up High School, prepare me for an independent life in college, help me get into college, and always treat me like her biological children. Her and her husband adopted me when I was 17, after knowing them for years, just to make sure I would be better prepared for the next phase of my life. She had a heart of Gold and showed me how to treat people. Even as a man with my own family and kids she never hesitated to lend me an ear or Motherly advice. She treated Holly like her own Daughter in law, and my kids will always know her as Granny Reba. Every phone call since I was a teen ended the same way. I love you, kiddo. I love you too. You were the Angel I needed when things got low.

“ To the Elmore family my Deepest Sympathy to you, I pray in time her loving memories will replace the pain you are experiencing now.

Reba was my first supervisor at the USPTO and as a caring mentor guided me through the beginning years of my career as a patent examiner. Many of the processes I learned from her I still use today and have shared with others. No doubt, the time she spent as a supervisor at the USPTO has left footprints that will last forever.

“ I first met Reba in August 1986 at MCAS Iwakuni in Japan where we lived in the same family housing unit. I still remember that day and feeling like we had already known each other forever. She and I and our families were inseparable from that day on and we never lost touch. She was my best friend in the entire world and one of the most remarkable women I have ever known. Each time we had the opportunity to see each other was like no time had passed in between and we picked up right where we left off. My life has been immeasurably happier and full since Reba came into it. There are so many good memories to help fill the ragged hole now in my heart.

Stephen, Justin, and Greg, I love you all and hope you find peace and joy in your memories. I will always be here for each of you.
