“ A great friend of our family going back many years. He was especially kind to Polly Robinson for not only friendship but looking after her during the years she was alone on the property. He helped everyone and added joy whenever he stopped for a visit. Never pushy in his offering of advice which usually came just before one of us was about to do something bordering on dangerous or ill advised. A great friend who will be missed by all of us....the Frain and Cochran families.

“ I have a lot of very vivid memories of Grandad. One of my favorites was the summer of the stick horses.

All through our childhood, a passel of the grand-kids of the same age ended up a "nanny camp" running around like wild children and having a super fun time. I'm not actually sure, now that I am a parent, how Nanny and Granddad didn't go crazy. :) From the moment Granddad's car pulled in the driveway after work, there were kids climbing all over him (waiting by the mailbox) demanding attention.

Anyway. The summer of the stick horses, Granddad took each of the kids individually out into the woods and we picked out a sapling that he cut down for us. He then sat with us to "design" our horse -- mine had polka dots and a blaze -- and drilled a hole through to create us some rope reigns. The whole wild herd of use spent that summer (and several others) galloping around on our stick horses, stabling them for the night in their personal garage bay, tying them to the porch while we paused for lunch or Popsicle.

It was a simple, personal gesture, indicative of the incredible man Granddad was and only one of many fantastic memories.

Love you, Granddad and we will miss you. Until we meet again - Jenni, Dan, Norah & Charlotte (who now have their own stick horses in our garage).
