“ Being a store manager, Steve and I didn't work together out in the field, but the few times we did cross paths, he always asked how my work was going out in the shops and although he probably didn't get the response he expected, he listened and genuinely cared about what I had to say - he had a way of making you feel important. I am somewhat new with Pro Finishes, and Steve made me feel very welcome in one of my first ever sales meetings, where he and I sat together.
