“ Trillow did seated Yoga Dance with me every Monday morning for just over a year. She was a real standout in class, and I became very, very fond of her. Sometimes when the music played she would remember that she used to dance the Charleston. She would tell us that her mama would have been scandalized, but her daddy knew she danced and that she won an award for her Charleston! She and I teased each other, calling each other "rascals." I miss her more than I can say in my class. Keep dancing, Trillow!
