“ Vic was in IBM’s SITE systems support department and later relieved me as manager. Through the years, we’ve exchanged many messages that kept us (and the SITE group) together. Always cheerful and up-beat. We’ll miss him.

“ My condolences to Vic's family from the shock from his sudden passing. While I knew Vic from work, it was his continued contact with a former junior staff member who moved back to Texas that touches me the most as the person he was. I hope the family finds comfort knowing this.

I was both shocked and saddened to hear about Vic's passing. I just talked to him at the IBM picnic. I have known Vic for a long time. He once worked for me at IBM. He was always a go getter and full of life. He recently came to my aid. I am handicap and I was concerned about being able to get to the restroom at the picnic. Vic went down and took pictures of the walkways at the picnic and that convinced me that I could navigate the terrain. I very much appreciated that. My sympathy goes out to his family. He will be surly missed. Bob Ackerman

I learned of Vic's passing on Monday, 29 September, on the 1st tee at PWGC. He and I had set a tee time for Monday morning to play golf with our sons, Patrick and Josh. He was late, and I got a text from his phone. But, it was from Joan letting me know that Victor had passed on Sunday. It was shock, and grief,, and so unexpected.

Vic and I retired from Lockheed Martin on the same day in 2010 after working together for many years. For the next 15 years, we have spent countless hours planning golf and playing golf @ courses from Front Royal to Fredricksburg. Many hours were spent sitting together in a golf cart talking, joking, and sharing thoughts and experiences. He was a friend. When we would part, he was already looking forward to the next outing with a call me, send a text or email. And, he always said that he was going home to his bride, Joan. He will be missed.

I met Vic at PWGC a couple years ago, I am a starter there and every time he would come up he was always joking with me and cutting up and it always seemed like we knew each other for a long time, Mr, Cutter came up this past week with his son and he was just notified that instant that Vic had passed and it felt like an old friend had passed, I am so sorry for your loss,

Vic, for myself, and on behalf of all the coworkers and golfers you've befriended over the years, I want to thank you and make sure you're remembered fondly for that friendship, the fun, the golf, the camaraderie, the spaghetti sauce, and especially for the organizing of the yearly "You Can Pick Your Friends But Not Your Family" golf tournaments that kept us all in touch with each other. You truly were a great guy, and your premature departure leaves a big hole in our lives. You will be sorely missed.
