“ Mrs. Cunningham always brought a smile to my face when she would come in for her doctor appointments with her granddaughter or son. Sometimes she would come in with her sunglasses on and I would call her Hollywood, she would smile. She reminded me of a beautiful actress. I loved chatting with her. She was such a kind, compassionate, beautiful woman. Her presence will greatly be missed by everyone but the memories will keep her alive in our hearts.

My thoughts and prayers are with Mrs. Cunningham and her lovely family.

“ This lady was a one of kind, full of love, compassion and so full of life. Absolutely nothing she wouldn't do for her family. She would dance in her kitchen with us as kids and continued to do so when the great grandchildren would come over and run a muck. She was always surrounded by her loved ones from near and far. When her Missouri side was visiting, my goodness the laughter never stopped. It was heavenly to hear them all together. She wasn't just someone to some of us, She was everything to everyone, the strudel that kept this family together. I will never forget the memories shared on family vacations, birthday gatherings, reunions, bringing each of my babies home to Nana's house was tradition.. even though we'd discuss them sleeping in a dresser drawer, I thought she was joking. The girl's trip to Atlantic City, oh my. The pie ordeal. .that's a memory indeed. We always got through the good times and the bad times and all the sad times. I know she had the most welcoming reunion when she went on to her heavenly life with so many waiting for her. We love you so much Grandma but we couldn't be selfish any longer, you are where you need to be now. Hugging your daughter, kissing your husband, giggling with your sweet mom and dad, just catching up with loved family and friends. You rest now it may hurt like heck to see you're gone but we all know the love you have for us all. That's not easily forgotten as you are not easy to forget. Until we see you again at the gates, save us some good seats. Love you with all our hearts, The Gang
