“ Your family has our sincere sympathy. I have been writing checks for 40 years to the most faithful paper man we could ever have had. He never missed a day. He was a dedicated man. I knew Terri slightly from singing choir together when the Methodist sang with the Brethren. May God be with you. Sheldon and Peggy Betterly

“ Sorry for your loss.

My mother died in December of 2004, aged 54, from melanoma, when I was fifteen years of age.

Your grief may ebb and flow. It is said that each of us who grieves has a well that is filled with tears and on certain days that well seems to overflow. There will be anniversaries, holidays, birthdays, and other days when that well will seem to overflow.

The Compassion Helpline is a counseling resource available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. It is staffed at all times by licensed professionals who are specially trained in grief counseling. All staff members have advanced degrees - either Ph.D.s or Masters in Social Work. By calling the toll free number, you or members of your immediate family can talk at any time to these professionally trained grief counselors, who will support and guide you through this difficult time. The Compassion Helpline 1-800-480-1234.

Finally, the Compassion Helpline counselors maintain a network of therapists and support groups for which individual appointments can be arranged (at your own expense) should face-to-face counseling be desired.

I also recommend "The Grief Recovery Handbook" by John W. James and Russell Friedman.
